The Road to Frankfort

• The 2012 NAIA Division I Women's Basketball National Championship presented by Kentuckytourism.com will serve as the inaugural event for the host site and the fourth different site since the event began in 1981. Prior to Frankfort, the tournament had been held in Jackson, Tenn., Kansas City, Mo. and Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

• The 32-team field is comprised of 17 automatic qualifiers from NAIA affiliated conferences and independents, plus 15 at-large selections. At-Large teams were determined using the final NAIA Division I Women's Basketball Coaches' Top 25 Poll released on March 7.

• Twenty-five teams that participated last year will be back and eyeing a shot at the title. Excluding first-time attendees, Georgetown (Ky.) ends the fields longest drought, making an appearance for the first time since 2008.

• Fifteen states will be represented in Frankfort, led by four from California, Oklahoma and Kentucky. Missouri, Tennessee and Louisiana feature three squads each, while Texas and Illinois are represented by two teams, respectively.

• Union (Tenn.) is making its NAIA-best 23rd appearance, including a streak of 20-straight dating back to 1992. In addition to appearances, the Lady Bulldogs hold a playoff-record 63 wins and join seven other squads in this year's event with at least 15 National Championship wins. Union, who received an automatic bid following a 54-47 victory in the TranSouth Athletic Conference Tournament, enters the event with five national championships, including back-to-back titles in 2005-06 and again in 2009-10.

• Defending national champion Azusa Pacific (Calif.) makes the field for the ninth-straight season following a runner-up finish in the Golden State Athletic Conference (GSAC) tournament. The Cougars, who claimed the GSAC's second national championship in 2011, are vying to become the conference's first-ever repeat champion.

• No. 1-ranked in the Coaches' Poll, Oklahoma City is searching for its sixth national title in program history, as five teams among this year's qualifiers have won at least one previous national championship. Southern Nazarene (Okla.) paces the field with an NAIA-record seven championships, including four-straight between 1994 and 1997, while Union and Oklahoma City are second with five championships, respectively. Azusa Pacific and Vanguard are the remaining previous national title winners in this year's field, owning one championship each.

• Six conferences landed four teams apiece in the 2012 National Championship field with the Mid-South Conference boasting a tournament-high five teams: Cumberlands (Ky.), Shawnee State (Ohio), Georgetown, Campbellsville (Ky.) and Lindsey Wilson (Ky.). The GSAC, Sooner Athletic Conference and Southern States Athletic Conference garnered four teams each, while the Red River Athletic Conference (RRAC) and TranSouth Athletic Conference added two programs, respectively.

• There are three newcomers in the field with MidAmerica Nazarene (Kan.), Lyon (Ark.) and Our Lady of the Lake (Texas) each making its inaugural trip to the event. The Pioneers, who competed in three NAIA Division II National Championships (2004, 2006 and 2008), before moving to Division I in 2009. Our Lady of the Lake qualified as the RRAC Tournament champion and brings a 26-7 overall record into the tournament. The Scots, who fluctuated in-and-out of the Coaches' Top 25 this season, received the No. 14 at-large spot.

Celebrating 32 Years of NAIA Division I Women's Basketball

• In 32 years, the national tournament has traveled to only three different cities prior to Frankfort: Kansas City, Mo., Cedar Rapids, Iowa and Jackson, Tenn. Jackson holds the record for longest tenure as a host with 22, ranging from 1990 to 2011.

• There have been 189 programs that have qualified for Division I Women's Basketball postseason action.

• Twelve different programs have claimed a national crown.

• The national championship game has been pushed into overtime on just one occasion. In 1984, North Carolina-Asheville defeated Portland (Ore.), 72-70 in overtime.

• The national championship has been decided by five-or fewer points 12 times with the champion owning an average margin of victory of 9.3. It has been a one-point decision five times, with the last coming in 2003 as Southern Nazarene (Okla.) edged Oklahoma City, 71-70.

• Southwestern Oklahoma's 35-point victory over Missouri Southern in 1982 is the largest margin of victory in the history of the Division I National Championship. Since 2000, Union (Tenn.) holds the mark with a 17-point, 79-62, win over Lubbock Christian (Texas) in 2006.

• Consecutive championships have been won on 11 occasions, including four-peats by Southern Nazarene (1994-97) and Oklahoma City (1999-2002).

• Union (Tenn.) has appeared in eight title games, including a run of three-straight dating back to 2009. The Lady Bulldogs only loss during the stretch came in 2011 when they fell to Azusa Pacific (Calif.), 65-59. It was the second-consecutive season the two sides had met with the title on the line.
