The Road to Frankfort

• The 2014 NAIA Division I Women's Basketball National Championship will be played out for the third-straight year at the Frankfort Convention Center in Frankfort, Ky. Prior to Frankfort, which is the fourth site since the event began in 1981, the championship had been held in Jackson, Tenn., Kansas City, Mo. and Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

• The field consists of 17 automatic berths and 15 at-large selections. Automatic qualification is given to conference regular-season champions, tournament champions, regular-season runners-up or tournament runners-up, depending on the league. At-large teams were determined using the final regular-season Coaches' Top 25 Poll released on March 12.

• Nineteen teams that participated in last year's event return to the 2014 field.

• Five teams will be competing in their first-ever national championship—Baker (Kan.), Cal State San Marcos (Calif.), Hope International, Huston-Tillotson (Texas) and Talladega (Ala.).

• Thirteen of the 32 qualifiers have made at least 10 appearances at the national championship, led by Campbellsville (Ky.) (22). Beyond Campbellsville, Wayland Baptist (Texas) (21), Oklahoma City (20), Freed-Hardeman (18), Xavier (La.) (18), Lewis-Clark State (Idaho) (17), Oklahoma Baptist (16) and Vanguard (Calif.) (16) have made 15-or-more appearances.

• Oklahoma City (1988, 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2012), Vanguard (2008) and Westmont (2013) are the only qualifiers with at least one national title.

• Six conferences—the AMC, GSAC, MSC, Red River Athletic Conference, SAC and the Southern States Athletic Conference—placed four programs in the national championship field.

• Top-ranked Vanguard (Calif.) headlines the field, as one of two one-loss teams entering the national championship. The Lions rattled off 26-straight wins to start the season, including a perfect 14-0 record in Golden State Athletic Conference (GSAC) play, before falling to Hope International (Calif.), 80-76, in the GSAC Tournament semifinals on March 7. As the No. 1 at-large selection, Vanguard is making its 16th all-time appearance—and 13th-straight. The Lions boast a 25-14 all-time record at the national championship, including a national title in 2008.

• American Midwest Conference (AMC) regular-season and tournament champion Freed-Hardeman (Tenn.) is the other one-loss team. The Lady Lions captured both AMC titles in their first year as members of the league, going 21-1 in conference play. Their lone loss of the season came at Lyon (Ark.), 81-72, on Feb. 15. Freed-Hardeman is making its 18th-straight appearance in the national championship—the longest streak of any qualifier—and owns a 24-17 all-time record at the national championship.

• Frontier Conference regular-season and tournament champion Westminster (Utah), is one of the hottest teams in the NAIA heading into the national championship. The Griffins have not lost since Dec. 28, 2013—a streak of 17-straight victories. Senior forward Kelsi Wells kept Westminster's streak alive by sinking two key free throws, which would prove to be the game-winning points, with 5.3 seconds left on the clock in the Frontier Conference Tournament championship. The Griffins will be competing in their eighth-straight national championship and will look to improve on their 8-7 all-time record.

• Defending national champion Westmont (Calif.) returns to the field for the fourth-straight year as the No. 4 at-large team. The Warriors carry an 8-7 all-time national champions hip record into this year's event, with five of those national championship victories coming in last year's title run.

• Six conferences—the American Midwest Conference, Golden State Athletic Conference, Mid-South Conference, Red River Athletic Conference, Sooner Athletic Conference and the Southern States Athletic Conference—placed four programs in the national championship field.

Celebrating 34 Years of NAIA Division I Women's Basketball

• In 34 years, the national championship has traveled to only three cities prior to Frankfort: Kansas City, Mo., Cedar Rapids, Iowa and Jackson, Tenn. Jackson holds the record for the longest tenure as a host with 22, ranging from 1990 to 2011.

• There have been 199 programs that have qualified for the Division I Women's Basketball postseason action.

• Thirteen different programs have claimed a national crown.

• The national championship game has required an overtime period on just on occasion. In 1984, North Carolina-Asheville defeated Portland (Ore.), 72-70, in overtime.

• The national championship has been decided by five-or-fewer points 12 times with the champion owning an average margin of victory of 9.7. The event has been a one-point decision five times, with the last coming in 2003 as Southern Nazarene (Okla.) edged Oklahoma City, 71-70.

• Southwestern Oklahoma's 35-point victory over Missouri Southern in 1982 is the largest margin of victory in the history of the Division I National Championship.

• Consecutive championships have been won on 11 occasions, including four-peats by Southern Nazarene (1994-97) and Oklahoma City (1999-02).
